

THE JOURNAL OF TOKYO MEDICAL UNIVERSITY

Vol. 58, No. 3

CONTENTS

Foreword

YAMAMOTO, H.	243
-------------------	-----

Farewell Lecture

MIKI, M. : Forty years of a urologist.....	245
--	-----

Originals

MIWA, K., YAMADA, M., SEKI, T. : Clinical evaluation of dynamic MR imaging in the diagnosis of hepatocellular carcinoma	249
ARAI, Y., NAMIKI, K., SHIOZAWA, H. et al : The effect of electrode shapes and electric power output on tissue in transurethral electrosurgical vaporization of the prostate	260
ABE, H. : Serum thrombomodulin in patients with rheumatoid arthritis	269
AKATA, S., DARKANZANLI, A., GIMITRO, A. F. et al : Measurement of flow velocity by magnetic resonance imaging using 2D phase contrast technique: estimation of oblique flow	278
TANI, Y., OHNO, H., MISAKA, R. et al : Genetic aspects of immunoglobulin heavy chain gene rearrangement and immunohistochemical staining of p53 and bcl-2 protein in cases with mucosa-associated lymphoid tissue lymphoma	286
AZUMA, S., ITO, H. : Management of posthemorrhagic hydrocephalus in premature infants with intermittent CSF drainage	296
UMEZAWA, H. : Comparison in pathology of NSAIDs-associated reactive gastritis and bile-associated reactive gastritis	301

Case Report

MIURA, H., TAIRA, O., HIRAGURI, S. et al : Buckling of the innominate artery	311
--	-----

Clinical Conference

Abstracts of the 296th Clinical Conference
A Case of Venous Hemangioma in mediastinum	317

International Symposium

Work related stress and health in three post-industrial settings —EU, Japan and USA—	327
---	-----

Tokyo Medical University International Symposium
Work Related Stress and Health in Three Post-Industrial Settings
—EU, Japan and USA—

Opening Address

SHIBUYA, T.	328
------------------	-----

Greetings

HAYASAKA, N.	329
TAKATA, T.	330

Session I : Conditions of work, stress and occupational health:
Present conditions and likely future trends

SHIMOMITSU, T., HARATANI, T. : Current status of occupational stress and health in Japan	331
KISHI, R. : Present status, health conditions, and work-related stress of women workers —including future issues	338
SAUTER, S., ROSENSTOCK, L. : Changing patterns of work organization in the United States : safety and health concerns and NIOSH initiatives	345
KALIMO, R. : The challenge of changing work and stress for human resources. The case of Finland	349
TETRICK, L. E. : Linkages between organizational restructuring and employees' well-being	357
KOBAYASHI, F. : Impact of job stress on health	364
SCHNALL, P. L., SCHWARTZ, J., LANDSBERGIS, P., et al : 'Job strain' findings in the Cornell University Worksite Blood Pressure Study : a review	367
ANDERSSON, S. I. : Stress, coping and household work—the Fibromyalgia example	377
KORNITZER, M., HOUTMAN, I., LEYNEN, F., et al : Job stress, absenteeism and coronary heart disease in Europe (JACE) a multicenter prospective study	384
WATANABE, N. : Changing human resource management practice in Japanese companies and its effects to employee well-being	392
RHEE, K. Y., YI, K. H., PARK, J., et al : Epidemiological characteristics of workers' sudden death as claims due to work stress	398

Session II: Needs for action

GRIFFITHS, J. : Unlocking resources for health—key questions for key partners	407
KEITA, G. P. : Occupational stress in women : a perspective from the United States	412
ARESINI, G. A. : The current activities on work-related stress within the European Commission : need for action	417

NAGATA, S., MISHIMA, N., KUBOTA, S. : Need for comprehensive stress management system	422
HIRO, H. : The role of the occupational health physician in stress management	428
SHIMA, S., HASEGAWA, E. : Stress and its management at work in Japan	432

Session III : Needs for research, education, information and narrowing the science-policy gap

FUJIGAKI, Y. : Filling the gap between research and science policy analysis on the difference and countermeasures	438
THEORELL, T. : Recent developments in work conditions and related research in Sweden	444
KAWAKAMI, N. : Future directions in job stress control : evidence-based approach, cultural perspective and integrated national strategy	451
HOVELIUS, B. : Women's unpaid/low-paid work, subordination and ill health —a European (Swedish) call for a gender perspective	456
LEVI, L. : Work-related stress and health—a challenge for all post-industrial countries	462

Reflections

KATO, M.	467
---------------	-----

Closing Remarks

KOYANAGI, Y.	469
-------------------	-----